MICHIGAN BUYS BADGER BULLS

Carload of Wisconsin Bulls Replaces Scrubs—Hold Special Tour.

Wherever the message of better dairying goes the hoof prints of Wisconsin dairy cattle soon are found.

Swinging through the upper peninsula of Michigan as part of the program to put farms in this section on the 100 per cent purchased bull basis, the Cloverland dairy special sold 17 purchased bull calves from badger herds at bargain prices during the past two weeks. Eight of the calves were Guernseys and seven were Holsteins.

Breeders of Vanhook county, Wis., strong in the belief that purchasers of these bulls will return for more stock when they are ready to go into the best-of-production business, supplied the calves, letting them "go for a song" in order to assist in the educational campaign.

Realize Scrubs

A lively interest was displayed in the bull feature of the train and in the first four stops eight of the bulls were taken. Six of these went to replace scrub herd sires.

In all 28 key communities were visited by the dairy special. A program and demonstrations to graphically demonstrate the advantages of the purchased over the scrub were staged at each stop. Following the program, the train held "open house" so that the farmers and their families might come aboard and view the array of exhibits.

Interest Is Shown

Railroads, bankers, business men, the Upper Peninsula Development bureau, the Michigan college of agriculture, and breed associations joined hands and contributed toward putting the campaign across. A. J. Platten, formerly of the agricultural journalism staff of the University of Wisconsin, now editor of the Stock and Dairy Farmer, Duluth, accompanied the train.

Other members of the train's personnel were George E. Blahon, secretary of the Upper Peninsula Development bureau; E. G. Amos, county agent leader for the upper peninsula; A. G. Kettunen, boys and girls club leader; J. G. Wells, dairy extension specialist of the Michigan college of agriculture; H. B. Denison, field secretary of the Michigan Jersey Cattle club; H. Mathison of the National Holstein-Friesian association.

KENNAN TAKING LEAD IN GRINDING LIME

Lancaster—Grant county's clever and alfalfa fields are taking a new lease of life as the business of limestone crushers continues to grind out piles to fill the sweet teeth of the county's four soils.

J. B. Kennan, county agricultural agent, is urging the farmers of the county to get their limestone crushed now so that they can apply it to the plowed land this fall and be ready for seeding next spring. It is quite likely that the crushers will be moved to different districts next spring.

SCHEDULE HEARINGS ON HOLDING CHEESE

AIRPLANE DIVES INTO MARSH MUD

Lake Mills Celebration Is Marked by Accident; No-body Hurt.

(By Staff Correspondent)

Lake Mills—While thousands frolicked here in festival amid beautiful weather and cool breezes, a thunder storm that broke on the outskirts of Lake Mills Thursday evening, caused an aviator and his mechanic to race back to town for safety. And in their anxiety to escape the elements, they dove into Morris Road, a muddy marsh south-east of the city and buried their machine deep in the mud.

Neither V. S. McElwaine, the aviator, nor K. J. Linn, his mechanic, was injured, nor the machine damaged, but it took most of Friday morning to dig the machine out of the swamp.

All sorts of rumors floated around Lake Mills Thursday night that the men, who had been carrying passengers during the afternoon, had taken a nose dive and that one and both were injured. Motor parties scooted here and there trying to find the machine to give aid. Meantime, the men were sitting quietly in a garage making arrangements to get their machine out in the morning.

Head Into Storm

"We were heading back to our homes in Aurora," said the aviator, "and had not gone far out of town when we headed right into the storm. We found it coming at us from two directions and had difficulty fighting our way out of it, and turning around. Meanwhile the wind had changed and the field we had been using for landing in the afternoon was therefore none too good. When we sailed over the marsh it looked like a fine landing field, but when we got into it we had not gone many yards when the nose dived right into the mud."

Reception Ends Program.
The alumni luncheon at noon and the president's reception ended the commencement week program. A large number of alumni and friends of the college were present at both meetings.

The alumni elected Herbert Wheeler president for the coming year, and $700 was raised by all members present to make up the deficit of the alumni athletic board for the coach's salary.

In the reception in the evening, the graduating class received many friends and an opportunity was afforded old students for reunion. If T. Plumb, Salt Lake City, showed Catherine Shaw was graduated magna cum laude, and C. E. Arrington and M. N. Davis were graduated cum laude. M. N. Davis was awarded the University of Wisconsin scholarship, offered yearly by Milton.

President A. E. Whitford announced the class honors and scholarships. R. T. Winch, Milton Junction, received the sophomore scholarship, while R. E. Wells, Friendship, N. Y., was second for the freshman class. Albert Whitford, of the sophomore class received the junior year scholarship with O. C. Keesey, Orfordville, second.

Senior Scholarship. E. M. Bingham, Milton, was appointed the senior scholarship. C. C. Green, Farina, Ill., was second high man.

President Whitford made his annual statement, emphasizing a note of optimism. He pointed out the growth of the college in various departments, especially the biology department under Dr. F. G. Hall. He said the endowment campaign would not be pushed, but they would concentrate on raising money for running expenses for the next two or three years.

Dean Selleny, in his address, spoke favorably for the college of Liberal Arts, saying that it was the only school for a real education. He said that it developed people with dependability, tolerance, and with a love for the simple pleasures of life.

300 GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES TO BE AFFECTED BY CUT

Madison — Approximately 300 government employees in Wisconsin, including those in forestry, agriculture, customs and weather reporting services, will receive reduced salaries during the coming year as results of the failure of congress to pass appropriation measures in time to permit signature, according to officials of the United States Weather bureau here today.

Employees receiving salaries of less than $2,500 a year only will be affected by the reduction, which will amount to $20 a month. It is stated. In Madison alone 200 employees will be affected, with a large number in Milwaukee.

MISTRESS WILDING:

A ROMANCE, BY RAFAEL SABATINI.

(Author of "Scaramouche," "Captain Blood," "Fortune's Fool," etc.)

SYNOPSIS.

Young Richard Westcott, by nature cowardly, but fired by the wine of love, dashes a cup of wine into the face of Anthony Wilding, a man of fortune, who is about to drink a toast to Ruth Westcott, the rash young fool's sister. He knows Wilding for a man of fortune, but for that reason he may insult Wilding with impunity. But Ruth has secured Wilding's attentions, and now he means to marry her. Through her brother, a great favorite with her, Wilding and Richard are to fight a duel on the morrow. The night Richard rides to his sister's home in Bridgewater a sobered and an emboldened man, Sir Rowland Blake, the sultan Richard favors, for he has drawn a bargain with Blake that when Ruth marries him a number of her possessions will be made over to Richard, who is a spendthrift and a gambler. But Ruth does not care for Sir Rowland. At the same time her cousin, Diana Horton, is deeply in love with him. The morning of the duel Sir Rowland appears early at the Westcott home in an effort to help Richard. He acquaints Ruth and Diana with Richard's troubles. Diana persuades Ruth to call on Wilding and ask him to forego this duel, in which her brother would certainly be killed. Wilding says he will spare Richard's life and honor if she will marry him.

"Do you mean..." gasped the other, "that you'll ask no satisfaction of me?"

Mr. Trenchard shall wait upon your friends tomorrow, and I hope you'll afford us then as little entertainment as you do now."

Richard, however, and, turning on his heel, made for the door.

"Give you a good night, Sir Rowland," Mr. Wilding called after him. "Waiters, you casual, light Sir Rowland to the door."

Door Blake went home deeply vexed; but it was no more than the beginning of his humiliation at Mr. Wilding's hands—for what can be more humiliating to a man of fortune than to have his enemy's son-in-law treat him so? He and Mr. Wilding met next morning, and before noon the tale of his run through Bridgewater that Wilding was of his tricks again. It made a pretty story how twice he had disarmed and each time spared the London beau, who still insisted—each time more furiously—on renewing the encounter. Mr. Wilding had been forced to run him through the sword-arm and thus put him out of all count in the continuing. It was a story that heaped ridicule upon Sir Rowland and did credit to Mr. Wilding.

Richard heard it, and trembled, enraged and humiliated, and he was stirred despite himself to a feeling of gratitude towards Wilding for the patience and toleration he had displayed.

There for a while the matter rested, and the days passed slowly. But Sir Rowland's nature—mean at bottom—was spurred to find him some other way to get his revenge. He lay in wait for him, and when he saw that Sir Rowland was in the house, he slipped in and hid himself. He was far from guessing it—an entirely exceptional ally. Lady Horton, too, was favorably disposed towards him. A foolish, wicked woman, who never probed beneath life's surface, nor indeed dreamed that anything existed in life beyond that to which her five senses testified, she was content plied to contemplate the advantages that must accrue to her niece from this alliance.

TODAY'S RECIPES.

Salmon Loaf.—This cannot always keep milk, which is plenty of fat. The supply will get ahead of the demand. Soak milk pancakes or biscuits are very palatable and help up the soup which has a very definite food value and should not be wasted. To make, take one or two eggs, half a teaspoon of salt, a teaspoon of sugar, one-half teaspoon baking soda, a cup of sour milk, flour to make a batter. You may also add a tablespoon of melted butter or cooking oil if you wish; it adds to the tenderness of the cakes. Rhubarb Conserve.—Four pounds of rhubarb, partly cooked, three and one-half pounds of sugar, one and one-half pounds of raisins, juice of one lemon, and one-half cup of vinegar. Cook until it will jelly.

Swiss Potato Salad.—Roll six medium sized Irish potatoes without removing the skins, in a running stream of water and pour off water. Peel, and while hot cut into cubes or rings. Season with pepper and salt and a dash of red pepper. Fry four slices of bacon until crisp, then break it into small pieces and mix with potatoes. Small pieces of onion and add to it one-half cup of vinegar. Roll one pound of butter, one-half cup of oil, one-half cup of vinegar, one-half cup of oil, one-half cup of vinegar, one-half cup of oil, one-half cup of vinegar. Strain all together with potatoes, being careful not to break potatoes. Lastly, add mayonnaise dressing.

Salmon Loaf.—Remove bones and skins from can of red salmon. Cut meat into small pieces. After soaking with salt, pepper and a dash of red pepper, add two eggs, beat until light, one and one-half cups bread crumbs, one tablespoon chopped pimiento, one tablespoon onion, one cup milk, mix all together and place in a baking dish, but do not put a cover over the receptacle. Dot with pieces of butter and bake in a moderate oven for 25 minutes.

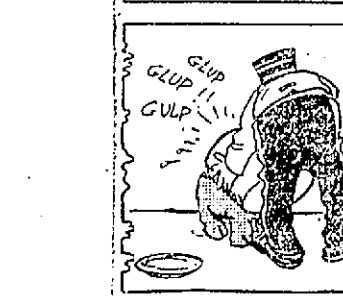

CLEAN BATHING POOLS.

Now that the warm weather is upon us it is well that we mothers should take the proper precautions in the habit of swimming and bathing. Disease germs may enter our bodies through bathing in unclean water. The "oil swimming" bath is usually a deep place in a running stream where the water purifies itself, and therefore is safe. Much bathing pools should have intelligent supervision to the places where they are kept clean. Every bath should be required to take a cleansing bath before entering a common bathing pool and the water should be kept clean. Frequent tests and inspections daily with chlorine of time.

YOUR BABY and MINE

BY MERTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred is happy to advise all mothers about the care of their children of any age, or on any subject which does not belong in the field of the doctor.

Answer

A Faithful Reader:

I cannot advise about these matters which are really abnormal and belong in the province of a doctor. I cannot imagine how one can expect to be all right after going through so many miscarriages. I am surprised you are as well as you are. They are absolutely against nature and one suffers in consequence.

Mrs. M. M. writes:

We have a darling baby girl 11 weeks old, who weighs 12 pounds. She breast fed every four hours. She holds her little head quite steady. Would it be too soon to allow her to sit up with a support at her back? Will her legs straighten out as she grows? They are not quite straight yet.

My friends all give their babies sugar in their drinking water. My doctor said plain boiled water. "I am compelled to wear pads to absorb the excess milk when the baby nurses. What can I do to help this?"

Please don't hurry the baby's development. When she is ready to sit up she will do it without supports. It is a great mistake to force a baby to use the back muscles when they are strong enough to support themselves.

The legs will straighten out. Use plain boiled water for drinking water. If you would you like to quench your thirst with sweet water? Sugar is a food.

I am so sorry that I cannot advise about books in this column—and I think you had best call your local board of health for the location of the clinic.

Be glad you have so much milk, and drink water when you are thirsty. Later this excess flow of milk will partially right itself. This seems to be one of the dangers of nursing a baby, but it is perfectly natural.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON.

Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

HE'S TIMID

Dear Mrs. Thompson: You considered rather timid with young girls around and would like for you to advise me how to overcome this. I have been going with a young girl for some time. How can I find out how much she thinks of me? I am contemplating matrimony in the near future. Do you think I'm too young to enter this wonderful "old ship"? What occupation would you advise me to enter? At present I am in the drug business, but as this is confining I would like something else of work. I have three girls in view. A girl with red curly hair, a black-haired one and a girl with brown hair. How can I be sure I'm not choosing the wrong one? H. J.

You can't be sure you are not choosing the wrong one until you have the right one. This you haven't done yet, and when you do you will know beyond a doubt that she is the right one. You are entirely too young to "contemplate matrimony," or perhaps it is better to say, do more than contemplate it. Doing business should be anything but confining, and the best way to make a success of any business is to stick at it through many years. Better begin now.

A LOVE STORY

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl in my teens and am still going to school. Two years ago I met a young man three years my senior, whom I have loved ever since. He has been visiting relatives here about one week after he was gone he wrote me a letter saying that he hoped we

What a pity she doesn't know that Resinol Soap would clear her skin

Dinner Stories

Everyone moved on tiptoes around the sick bed at last arrived.

"Are you feeling very ill?" he asked, preparing to take the invalid's temperature.

"Only answer was a groan.

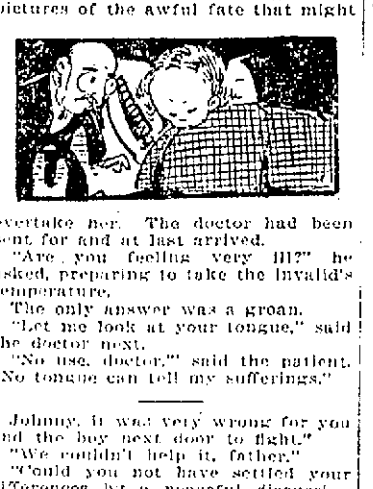

"Let me look at your tongue," said the doctor next.

"No use, doctor," said the patient. "No tongue can tell my sufferings."

Johnny, it was very wrong for you and the boy next door to fight.

"We couldn't help it, father."

ance of unprejudiced opinion, if need be?"

"No, father. He was sure he could whip me and I was sure I could whip him, and there was only one way to find out."

A druggist was aroused one night by the violent ringing of his front door bell. Looking out of the window, he saw a young girl in evening dress.

"What's the matter, miss?" he asked. "Has anyone been ill?"

"Oh, no," came back in sweet tones, "but I'm dancing at the ball close by, and I've run out of rouge."

"Indeed?" snorted the indignant druggist. "I'm sorry, miss, but never keep enough rouge in stock to cover a check like yours?"

A certain judge once had the tables neatly turned on him by his wife. They had been to church and after the service she and several other women stood by the altar discussing topics of feminine interest. The judge was quite annoyed at their doing so and on the way home he remarked sarcastically: "Do you know you chatterbox women reminded me of Balala's ass blocking the way?"

"Oh, no, dear; you are mistaken," returned his wife calmly. "It was the angel that blocked the way of the ass."

An insurance agent was trying to convince a prospective customer of the merits of life insurance. He kept right at him.

At one stage of the battle, the agent used this argument: "Why," he said, "insurance is the greatest thing in the world. No man should be negligent. I can carry a $50,000 policy payable to my wife."

"It's too much," said the harassed prospect. "What excuse can you give her for living?"

TURTLE TOWNSHIP GETS BIG CROWD

STANDARD TOURIST CAMPS IN KANSAS

State Takes Lead in Regulating Problems and Length of Stay.

A few years ago tourist camps were unknown. Now they can be found in practically any city of any size in the middle west and in the resort states of Florida, California, Washington and others.

The causes for this growth may be found largely in the activities of the chambers of commerce in requesting city officials to provide spaces where tourists could be entertained in a small way, and encouraged to stop in the city with the hope that they might spend money with the merchants.

Tourist camps are of two kinds—transient and permanent. The transient camps are usually in the resort states, which are usually terminal camps, with the intention of staying for some time. A transient camp usually entertains the tourists over night. Such camps are found on all the main east-west and north-south routes, especially in Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Colorado and other states in the middle west and mountain states.

It was not long ago that a problem developed with operation of camps. The problem arose out of the fact that a number of people found it possible to purchase cheap camps, lead in all their belongings and save the summer's rent by camping on free ground until the first frost. Such persons, many of whom were very slight, they carried nothing but a few standard of living and their attention to the camp was usually very slight. They carried nothing but a few standard of living and their attention to the camp was usually very slight. They carried nothing but a few standard of living and their attention to the camp was usually very slight.

The necessity for strict police supervision was apparent, and sanitary supervision was limited. It was by state boards of health in practically every state. The cost of such services, with the cost of operating the camp, in fact, for the water and other facilities, and in some cases fire fuel and shelter, was so great that citizens in less prosperous towns began to ask themselves: "Is the tourist camp a paying proposition for the town?" The merchants were the only ones benefited, and they profited in a very small way from the poorer class of tourists.

Kansas has, perhaps, as many transient camps, most of them well equipped and maintained, as any other state. It is quite fitting, therefore, that the cities of Kansas should be the first to see the necessity for change in tourist camp administration and take steps toward finding a solution for the problem.

In response to a call from the mayor of a city in Kansas a group of city officials met in the state capital. It was decided that the best solution was in which would standardize the services offered by tourist camps and provide a fee for the use of them. They also proposed that the cities unite on a definite program regarding the length of stay which should be allowed. This secretary of the League of Kansas Municipalities was requested to draft a proposed constitution sheet for use in camps and to prepare an identification tag.

Registration blanks. A second meeting was called, and when the officials met practically all the larger cities along the main trails from Kansas City west were represented. This meeting recommended that the forms as presented by the secretary of the league be used by the cities represented, and that registration blanks be made in duplicate and exchanged between cities for police purposes. It was further recommended that the question of standardization be taken up before the convention of the League of Kansas Municipalities. Since that meeting several of the cities have established a charge for the use of the tourist camps, and have adopted the forms—City Manager Magazine.

ST. PAUL EXPRESS VICTIM OF DARING COUP AT RONDOUT

Of the eight cars on the train only those in the center contained the robbers. The train slowly backed so that the middle car stopped across the automobile road.

The clerks in the middle car, looking out of the car windows saw two automobiles parked on the east side of the track and two on the west side. Seeing something wrong and according to their orders, they extinguished all lights in the car.

The robbers forced their way into the cars by breaking the enough windows and throwing bombs filled with chloroform gas. The clerks and guards, nearly overcome by the deadly fumes, were forced to open the doors and allow the robbers to enter.

Officials are certain that the holdup had been arranged by a group of men thoroughly familiar with railroad and railroad mail clerks' work. At least two of the robbers concealed themselves aboard the mail special before it left Chicago.

The train had just gone through Rondout and was traveling close to 60 miles an hour. Two men, carrying flash sticks and revolvers, came from their hiding places between the tender and the first coach, crawled across the swinging coal tender and into the engine cab.

The muzzle of one weapon was pushed against the neck of Engineer S. L. Waite, of Milwaukee. The other bandit covered the fireman, J. Biddle, also of Milwaukee.

"A half mile down the track you'll see a red light flashed on the west side of the tracks," the man back of the engine said. "When you see that light you'll stop the train. If you don't you're done."

The train roared on, but with increasing speed as the bandits had ordered a slow application of the brakes. Just where the Buckley road, a popular auto route between Chicago and Libertyville, cut the track, a red light flashed close to the west rail.

"Now jerk the hand lever yanked into the engineer's car. The engineer did. Before the train came to a full stop a third bandit cut the air line pipe.

Officials are certain that the holdup had been arranged by a group of men thoroughly familiar with railroad and railroad mail clerks' work. At least two of the robbers concealed themselves aboard the mail special before it left Chicago.

The train had just gone through Rondout and was traveling close to 60 miles an hour. Two men, carrying flash sticks and revolvers, came from their hiding places between the tender and the first coach, crawled across the swinging coal tender and into the engine cab.

The muzzle of one weapon was pushed against the neck of Engineer S. L. Waite, of Milwaukee. The other bandit covered the fireman, J. Biddle, also of Milwaukee.

"A half mile down the track you'll see a red light flashed on the west side of the tracks," the man back of the engine said. "When you see that light you'll stop the train. If you don't you're done."

The train roared on, but with increasing speed as the bandits had ordered a slow application of the brakes. Just where the Buckley road, a popular auto route between Chicago and Libertyville, cut the track, a red light flashed close to the west rail.

"Now jerk the hand lever yanked into the engineer's car. The engineer did. Before the train came to a full stop a third bandit cut the air line pipe.

Of the eight cars on the train only those in the center contained the robbers. The train slowly backed so that the middle car stopped across the automobile road.

The clerks in the middle car, looking out of the car windows saw two automobiles parked on the east side of the track and two on the west side. Seeing something wrong and according to their orders, they extinguished all lights in the car.

The robbers forced their way into the cars by breaking the enough windows and throwing bombs filled with chloroform gas. The clerks and guards, nearly overcome by the deadly fumes, were forced to open the doors and allow the robbers to enter.

LEGION FETE AT LAKE MILLS ENDS

Great Homecoming Celebration Comes to Close After Two Big Days.

(By Staff Correspondent.)
Lake Mills.—The greatest community celebration in years at Lake Mills, came to a close at 11 a. m. Friday. When the last note of the orchestra died away at the Rock Lake pavilion and the dancers fled out for home, the local American Legion had finished its work of providing two of the happiest days in the history of the city.

From early Wednesday morning until the closing hour, thousands of visitors thronged the beach at better than 100,000, and came to the lake town, frolicked and gone away tired, happy, but debilitated. The big homecoming and festival was a success.

"We gave the folks two days of real fun," said the Rev. Robert H. Clark, commander of the Legion, Thursday night. "We will not only clear all expenses, but I believe we shall have a profit of at least $500. Everything was clean and there was not an arrest for disorder. It has been a wonderful occasion."

Another ball game, this one won by Milton over Lake Mills, 12 to 5, some more athletic events, an address by Miles Whaley, Legion commander at the Wisconsin American Legion, other stunts, featured Thursday. Thousands were in attendance all through the day, and Thursday night the square was jammed with people milling in and out of the public park.

One of the outstanding events of the second day was the swimming water fight between the teams of the Lake Mills and Watertown fire departments. The competitors were teams that won on Wednesday night when the Lake Mills team defeated Watertown another. For 15 minutes, while a huge crowd viewed a drenching and many others jammed windows and mounted to roofs, the men battled. The result was a draw. Firemen Lokita and Bellinger represented the home town and Carey and Rhodes for Watertown.

The gold medal for all-around athletic ability was awarded Thursday night to E. Ludwig, Watertown, who scored 40 points. A silver medal for second went to Tom Price, sensational at Lake Mills football player, with 32 points. A bronze medal for third was won by John Sakellaris, Beaver Dam, 25 points. Roger Peterson, Lake Mills, was given honorary mention for counting 22 points.

In the swimming event Thursday, Cogan of Watertown was first. Price of Lake Mills, second, and Deakin, Watertown, third. The distance was about 80 yards.

Thursday morning, the business men's baseball team defeated the farmers, 11 to 4. In the evening, the women's team defeated the American Legion in a tie of war.

The Creamery Package company was given first place for the best deal in Wednesday's parade. An automobile was presented to Adolph Voss, Lake Mills.

New Castle, Pa.—Women weigh themselves more frequently than men, the New Castle city council has discovered. Frequent weighing machines maintained by the city disclosed this fact when the receipts were counted. Machines located where women use them showed nearly four times as much income as those more available for the use of men.

DRIVE TO REDUCE CROSSING DEATHS

Rigid Investigations of Accidents in Touring Season Promised.

(By Associated Press.)
Madison.—In an effort to cut down railroad crossing casualties in Wisconsin during the tourist season, special investigations will be made of all serious crossing accidents by the state railroad commission, Lewis E. Gettle, chairman of the state commission, announced today.

Immediately upon advice of an accident by the railroads, the state commission plans to send special investigators to the scene of the accident to determine the cause and report any needed alterations in crossing locations, Mr. Gettle said. It is expected the scheme will result in a marked reduction of tourist casualties during the summer season when traffic is heavy.

Under state laws, according to Chairman Gettle, the railroads are required to report immediately any deaths caused by railroad accidents. These reports usually are wired to the state department. Upon receipt of the notice, a deputy of the commission will institute an investigation.

This policy will be followed particularly in case of accidents resulting in deaths. Recently, when three Rockford, Ill., residents were killed at Edwards Park crossing, near here, the state commission instituted an investigation and assumed jurisdiction of the case. Similar action is expected in other places in the state where serious accidents have occurred.

During the first three months of this year, 25 lives were taken by accidents, reports to the state commission indicate. It is in an effort to reduce the casualties that the commission has adopted its drastic policy.

WOMEN TO REGAIN U. S. CITIZENSHIP

Four Apply Who Lost Rights by Marrying Foreigners Before 1922.

Four American born women who lost their birthright of American citizenship when they married foreigners are seeking to regain it through naturalization proceedings started in the Rock county circuit court. Their petitions will be heard together with 17 others September 25.

Since September 22, 1922, the nationality of men and women has been made independent and marriage does not change the nationality of the woman as it did prior to that time. The four women in Rock county who are seeking to regain their rights of citizenship lost prior to 1922, are Hattie Augusta Kreitz, Leona Stole, Mabel Marie Weinger and Eva Kaplan, all of Beloit.

Such interest in recent years has been manifested in the time foreigners are in this country, before they seek to become citizens. Scanning the list for the next naturalization hearing, one finds that it ranges from 19 to 40 years, with the average 21 years for this group.

One interesting case on the next hearing list is that of Cornelius McDonald, of Janesville, a native born Canadian and a staunch American in heart, but who fled after living here since 1860 that he is not an American, his father having neglected to take out papers. He is seeking citizenship papers.

Others seeking admittance are: Janesville—Jacob Moeck, Germany; Joe Mocerio, Italy; Jacob Miklos, Czechoslovakia; Teodor Hullik, Poland; Charles Isaac Dineen, England; Catherine Mann, Ireland; Dolores—Catherine John Racz, Hungary; Abraham Louis Kaplan, Lithuanian; George Damas Patrino, Athinopas, Spahos.

John Peters Skvans, all from Greece; John Evans Davis, England; Steven G. Ostole, Austria; Leonard Piccone, Pabo Palmint, Italy.

FIRES WHICH ALWAYS BURN.
There are domestic fires burning in Yorkshire today which have never been out for hundreds of years.

At the old-fashioned farmhouse in the date of Yorkshire pent is still burning. The fuel is obtained from the moors, and stacks of it are kept by the farmers in their stock yards.

The country roundabout is noted for its griddle cakes, which are made from dough baked in quaint pens suspended over the peat fires. These fires are kept glowing from generation to generation, and the son warms himself at the fire which warmed his sire and his grandsons yielded products valued at 70,000,000 crowns.

There is a fire at Castleton, in the Whithy district, which has been burning for over 200 years. This record probably is held by a farmhouse at Gnosborough, in the same district. This fire has been burning for 200 years, and there are records to show that it has not been out during the last three centuries.

PORTUGAL FIGHTS COSTS.

Some Lawn Mowers Cost More than Others

And this cost is not determined by the purchase price. The real cost of a lawn mower can be computed only by dividing the purchase price by the number of working hours.

Take a mower like the Coldwell, that gives a lifetime of service, and you have the most reasonably priced lawn mower you could buy.

Add to that the satisfaction derived from owning the easiest running, sharpest bladed, most comfortable lawn mower, and again you have only one answer—COLDWELL.

Which we demonstrate—and sell.

NEW POTATOES IN CREAM, AVAILABLE

Plenty of New Tubers on the Market—Fancy Fruits Coming in.

Rapid disappearance of pineapples is the most noticeable feature of the retail fruit and vegetable trade this week-end. From the hundreds which were on the market three or four days ago, Friday saw but about a half-dozen in each store, and some dealers having none at all. Prices jumped, and hardly any can be had for less than 25 cents, while a week ago they were down to 12½c.

Larger and better supplies of new potatoes, and all of excellent quality, are coming in, and are very reasonable for this time of year, at 5 cents per pound or 55 to 60 cents a peck. At this time last year, 75 cents a peck was the cheapest that could be secured. Old potatoes are 20 cents a peck.

Lower Prices Prevail. Prices are, in general, lower on all fruits and vegetables this year than they were last year. Cantaloupes may be had in abundance for 10 cents each, against a price of 15 cents the middle of last June; while new cabbage at 5 cents a pound is one cent less, beans are only 12½ cents, compared to 20 cents last year. Possibly on account of the cool weather so far, and the consequent small demand, lemons have so far failed to advance, as is usual at this time of year, and remain at 25 cents a dozen. Last June they were 40 cents, at the lowest.

Despite the fact that home-grown strawberries will be on the market within 10 days, it is estimated, prices on the shipped-in kind have not yet been reduced, and on Friday were even higher than they have been on previous days. Most dealers were selling for 25 cents. They are now coming from Iowa.

Fancy Offerings. Among the more fancy items in the markets this week are green grapes, of very good quality, from Argentina, South America, at 40 cents a pound. They are the first seen here since shortly after Christmas. First of the California apricots appeared on Tuesday or Wednesday, and may be had for 25 cents a dozen. Last year at this time they could be purchased for 15 cents a dozen. California cherries at 45 cents a pound, have started their second week on local markets, and are the only ones to be had, though a few of the early home-grown crop is usually to be had by now.

Most of the vegetables now seen in the stores here are home-grown, including rhubarb at 5 cents a pound, or six for a quarter; asparagus at 15 cents a bunch; head lettuce at 20 cents a pound, a drop of 20 cents since last week; and green onions and radishes, 5 cents.

The largest and best cumberbuds, which a week or two ago sold for 20 cents, may now be bought for 10 cents, while others, of smaller size, down to 5 cents. Head lettuce is 10 and 15 cents each; peas, 10 cents; mushrooms, 20 cents; spinach, 12½ cents; and carrots and beets, 10 cents.

Butter and eggs seem to be at what may be considered standard prices for this season, as they have been within a cent or two of present figures at this time of year for several years back. Butter is 40 to 45, and eggs, 21 cents.

48 SAILORS KILLED IN WARSHIP BLAST

steamed home with its dead and injured from the drill grounds and hurled a steel projectile dangerously near to an onboard passenger liner. Should the third gun's charge explode before it can be removed, however, it is believed that precaution already taken will render the firing harmless.

Meanwhile, this harbor community today was overrun with messenger boys, their pockets stuffed with telegrams—envelopes containing the anxious queries of mothers, wives, sweethearts from all parts of the United States. Through the gloom of the early morning hours, they hurried back and forth in the dark-end streets. Then came automobiles from nearby cities and towns, carrying relatives or friends of the dead or injured.

Few Are Injured. Of the injured there were strangely few. With a death list close to the half hundred mark, only eight men were numbered among the hurt, and the injuries of these were comparatively slight.

Just how the fatal explosion occurred was still undetermined, though from witnesses aboard the Mississippi and aboard other vessels near her, when the disaster broke up their scheduled target practice, a fairly comprehensive picture of the accident was obtained.

for towing the target, were off San Clemente Island, 45 miles from here and were engaging in secret gunnery practice, a feature of which was mass firing by 26 15-inch rifles trained on a single target.

Escape Cut Off. When the fireback from the first 15-inch gun came, officers say it may have been caused by a premature signal to throw the electric switch setting off the charge, or by a still glowing fragment left in the breech after the previous firing. The only avenues of escape were cut off by flames. Four men leaped through hatches to safety. All others in that part of the target containing the guns, suffocated in the atmosphere of flame, gas and poisonous fumes.

The hatches were choked with dead and only water hose at first could be forced through the entrance. By this time other vessels in the divisions knew what had happened. The Tennessee and the Idaho stood by and lowered small boats. Ship's surgeons were sent to the stricken vessel.
